The 206 S camping stove is a remarkably sturdy and efficient appliance that is characterised by its economical gas consumption. This makes the stove an excellent choice for outdoor enthusiasts who want to cook on the go. The gas cartridge is securely inserted into the housing bell and firmly fixed in place using the anti-twist protection to ensure reliable and safe use. Please note that the cartridge must be completely empty before you remove it from the appliance to avoid any risks.

Regarding the performance of the camping stove: With a boiling time of 5 minutes and 30 seconds for water, you can prepare meals quickly and efficiently. In addition, the stove offers an impressive burning time of up to 2 hours before a cartridge change is required. These features make the 206 S stove a reliable companion for outdoor adventures and camping trips where efficient cooking and low gas consumption are of great importance.
