The AquaCount water meter by GARDENA not only helps you to measure your own water consumption when watering at any time, but also to save water. The garden water meter is easy to install and operate: The battery-operated water meter is ready for immediate use and is easy to clean. It can be connected directly to the tap or to the end of the hose and can be installed horizontally or vertically. The display can be rotated and is easy to read in any position. The clever one-button operation also provides a detailed insight into the water consumption per day, per season, the exact consumption per watering process and the flow rate per minute in litres. The AquaCount water meter also impresses with its high-quality materials, which make it robust, frost-proof and UV-stable. GARDENA guarantees this product quality for five years.
